LEADERSHIP COMPETENCY IS ON MOTIVATION

INTRODUCTION

Healthcare leadership competency is now recognized as a key issue that defines the effectiveness of organizations and teams. In this connection, motivation can be regarded as one of the most important competencies more or less pertinent to leadership. The knowledge of top performers' motivational tactics is crucial to optimize team productivity and achieve strategic objectives.

LEADERSHIP MOTIVATION AND ITS SIGNIFICANCE

Engagement is one of the leadership competencies by which motivation affects the manner leaders relate to the employees. Engaged employees work harder, are loyal and even ready to do more than is required of them. Top employees get motivated by both the internal motivation that stems from within and external factors that are administered by the leaders.
